ZAC SLATER

There are very few musicians as versatile as ZAC SLATER.

The self-taught multi-instrumentalist from Launceston, Tasmania fuses elements of reggae and hip-hop with soulful vocals and upbeat acoustic guitar to create his signature sound.

Born into a musical family (his father a drummer and mother a singer), Zac was only two years old when he first picked up a set of drumsticks and started banging out beats, discovering early on an innate desire to make music.

Zac made his debut in 2010, releasing a self-titled solo EP via Rockfellaz, which landed him a spot among the Australian APRA 2011 song-writing competition finalists.

Since moving to Melbourne to pursue his music career, Zac has played alongside some of Australia's most loved artists including Sticky Fingers, Thundamentals, Kingswood, Bootleg Rascal, Ivan Ooze and Boo Seeka. He has performed at Falls Festival, Basin Concert and most recently Party In The Paddock.

Zac released his second EP 'The Versatile Mind' late last year and has recently signed with Alt music group.
